

COMING PRIMARIES

Voters Hold Practically Two Elections Under New Law

Two Members of Board of Public Works Will Be Elected

The city election is not far away and while there is not much doing on the outside there appears to be some activity on the inside. Very few of the voters are aware that the next city government must nominate in the primaries as this was voted for a year ago and it means two regular elections to get a mayor and city council. The voters will ballot in their respective wards for candidates in the primaries the same as on the regular election days and the primaries of both parts will be held together. To make it more interesting two members of the board of public works are to be elected. One to fill the place of C. F. Shillaber, who resigns and the other to fill the place of John Newick whose term expires this year. Under this arrangement the next city election will be an expensive one to the city.

COAST ARTILLERY CO. AT MASSABESIC TODAY

On the arrival of the prisoners and the guards in Washington, they will be obliged to wait there over night in order to make good connections for the South. They expect to reach Atlanta sometime Sunday forenoon.

COL. PENDER CITES FACTS

Open Letter in Answer to Criticism of Some Navy Yards

Hollier Herald:—

The several shipbuilding plants which make a specialty of the construction of the giant modern crafts of war are reported as being unwilling to bid on contemplated new dreadnaughts of the United States because of the application of the eight hour law to their construction. It would seem then, in view of that fact, that now is the proper time for the government to put into effect the building of all its war vessels in its own yards, by federal workmen.

It has been estimated by naval officials that a comparison of the cost of government built battleships with those constructed in private yards shows that the contract-built ships are much cheaper. How true this is, when other factors besides the actual money outlay involved are considered remains to be proven.

It may be, and probably will be found to be so, that the government-built vessels will stand up better than those built by contract and cost less for repairs during their life in the naval service, thus evening up for the extra money involved in first cost.

In the days of the old wooden navy, the ships built in United States Navy yards, many of the most famous in our own yard at Portsmouth, were noted for the staunchness and worth and won an enviable reputation for the navy yard mechanics.

There is no doubt that with the building of any considerable number of the modern battleships in the government yards, the cost would be materially reduced and probably would be brought down to a figure that would compare very favorably with the price of contract built vessels.

It is evident that the application of the eight-hour law to the private yards would add considerable to the price they would have to make in their bids for the work and would probably bring the expense of contract-built warships up very near the cost in government yards and the extra worth of the government built vessels would more than make up the difference in price.

It has been said by the naval officials that the yards outside that at Brooklyn are not equipped for the building of warships, and that it would cost about $200,000 to make each yard ready to do this work.

I am unable to see why the expenditure of this money at each of the yards capable of doing this work would not be a paying investment for the government.

With one battleship, or more, under construction at all times at each of the yards, a large permanent force of the best skilled mechanics in the world would always be at the service of the United States for transfer from new work to that of repair, routine and emergency, and business men will readily admit that this would be of immense advantage to the government. It would cut down the cost of repair work to an extent that would minimize the extra cost of building warships. A practical business man would at once put in force such a plan, instead of procrastinating, as do theoretical men who attempt to run the government's business on plans, that would spell ruin for any private enterprise. Let us have more of the practical and less of the theoretical in the navy—the cost will then be minimized, the work better done and the returns to government more satisfactory.

Why do not the theoretical advocates of the contract system in the naval work go further and urge the education of the officers of the navy by contract. They could easily figure out that many private institutions would be glad to bid a lump sum per man for preparing men for sea service than the cost each at Uncle Sam's great naval academy at Annapolis.

They would then be consistent in their ideas. Yet, does any sane man believe that officers of the sterling worth and ideal qualification for the service, imbued with the same patriotism shown by United States naval officers of past and present could be turned out in any private institution at a contract price?

Why then, if contract-made officers can easily be forecasted as a failure, should contract-built vessels be favored because of a slight difference in cost?

TAYLOR SYSTEM AIDS WORKMEN

Col. Wheeler Says One Expert Gets $50 a Day

Boston, Oct. 6.—According to Col. H. Wheeler commanding officer at the Watertown Arsenal, the so-called Taylor system of scientific shop management recently adopted in part at the arsenal, has been of direct benefit to both the Government and the workmen, notwithstanding the fact that the foundrymen at Watertown went on strike some weeks ago, returning to work pending an investigation by Congress.

Col. Wheeler testified before Congressmen William R. Wilson of Pennsylvania, W. C. Redfield of Brooklyn and J. Q. Tilson of New Haven, Conn., a special subcommittee of the Congressional committee on Labor, all day yesterday in the library of the Chamber of Commerce. He was closely questioned by the committee and labor representatives.

The new system has just started Col. Wheeler said and now applies to 12 molders and 12 machinists at the arsenal. When asked if these 24 men have made advance in their wages under the scientific method the commander quoted from printed data which he had compiled to show that out of 120 fogs premiums have been said that the successful men made an average of 25 percent more than their wages under their regular rating.

When asked just how many men gained by the premium system, Col. Wheeler said that 10 or 12 of them earned the additional money. He described the method of getting the men

Interested in the new system and declared that he had expressly forbidden any threats.
John R. O'Leary, international vice president of Molders and Core makers' Union, said the labor men would later call a witness who would testify concerning an alleged threat made to him by one of Col. Wheeler's subordinates.

Col. Wheeler said the work of installing the new system at Watertown has cost the Government between $35,000, a large portion of which went to defray the salary and expenses of two experts, Messrs. Merrick and Garth, one of whom received $50 a day and expenses for his services.

Questioned by Congressman Redfield, Col. Wheeler said he aimed to comply with the factory laws of Massachusetts at the arsenal, although they do not apply to the Government reservation. He expressed the belief that a Federal law on this subject would be a benefit.

There are 126 machinists at the arsenal, the commandant said, and there are seven ratings, the wages running from $3.68 to $2.40 per day.

BRIDGE INSPECTOR MAKES INSPECTION AT HIS OLD HOME

John E. Carty supervisor of bridges and buildings of the Boston and Maine railroad was in this city on Thursday where he inspected the property of the company including the Portsmouth "old Kittery" bridge. Whether or not his visit to his native city means anything toward the long contemplated improvements or not is a question as railroad men for twenty years have looked at the span across the Piscataqua river and the same span is still there.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM DEATH

Automobile Struck Mrs. Burke of Rye

Mrs. Burke of Rye had a narrow escape from death at 3.10 yesterday afternoon while rushing to board a trolley car for home. She had a large number of bundles in her arms and rushed directly in front of an automobile from Maine. The car was moving cautiously at the time and for that reason Mrs. Burke escaped serious injury. She was knocked down and aside from being badly frightened, she was none the worse for her experience. Parties near by helped gather up her parcels and she left on the car for Rye.

ITALIAN FLAG OVER TRIPOLI

Have Landed After Reducing Forts
...Rumor of Italian Ship
Blown Up.

Glasgow, Oct. 5.—Elliot & Co., almost serious damage and loss of life from having agents at Tripoli, this afternoon received a cable message from Jerba, Tunis, saying:

"The Italian flag now floats over Tripoli."

London, Oct. 5.—A dispatch from Rome says that the Syracuse correspondents of a Rome paper telegraph:

"The Italians effected a landing close to Tripoli under the protection of their warships."

Port Said Egypt, Oct. 5.—The Italian consul here today protested to the governor of the Suez Canal against the continued presence in the harbor of the Turkish transport Kaiser which has been here since Sept. 30. The consul contends that this constitutes a breach of the neutrality of the canal.

Rome, Oct. 5.—A telegram from Tripoli, under today's date, says: The bombardment was continued yesterday morning. The fire was directed against the outer defences, the central defences being spared, so as not to destroy the town. The Sultana and Hamidieh batteries were dismantled.

The cruiser Giuseppe Garibaldi entered the harbor and Italian officers visited the Hamidieh battery. They found that the Turks had removed the sights from the guns and evacuated. Three dead bodies were found in the battery.

Up to the time that this message was sent no offer of capitulation has been made.

Tripoli, Oct. 5.—No offer to surrender had been made by the Turks this morning.

Following yesterday's bombardment by the Italian fleet the cruiser Giuseppe Garibaldi entered the harbor and landed two officers.

The officers visited the Hamidieh battery which had been dismantled by the guns of the warships. The battery had been evacuated by the Turks who had removed the breech locks of the guns. The bodies of three of the Turkish garrison were found in the fort.

Some of the inhabitants of Tripoli displayed enthusiasm when they saw the Italians landing.

Advancing Turkish torpedo boats were stranded and badly damaged.

The cables are out between the land office and the sea, and accordingly the cable ship has been unable to repair them. The wireless plant at Berna has been rendered inoperative.

Malta, Oct. 5.—The United States Cruiser Chester arrived here today, en route for Tripoli.

Constantinople, Oct. 5.—The Turkish Fleet today entered the Bosphorus from the Dardanelles.

London, Oct. 5.—The correspondent of the Evening News at Constantinople telegraphs that a division of the Italian fleet is cruising in the Aegean Sea between Asia Minor and the Greco-Turkish peninsula. The inhabitants of the Turkish islands are without protection, and attacks on Mytilene island and Chios island are feared. Heavy firing is reported on the Gulf of Saros, northwest of the Dardanelles.

Rome (via Trieste), Oct. 5.—Admiral Sestini has stated that the player who is a close friend of Mack's. The friend passed word along to Mack and ultimately the Philadelphia manager began corresponding with Brackett. It is likely that Brackett will go to one of the other teams at the close of the college baseball season in 1912.

Brackett has returned to college. His father advised him not to play football until he has fully recovered from injuries sustained in a contest with freshmen.

FOOTLIGHT FLASHES

"Mott and Jeff" are said to have caught on with theater patrons.

"A Lovely Lark" is the piece in which Will Philbrick is to have an important part.

Zelda Sears, coming to this city later in "The Nest Egg" was one of the principles of the fine company which gave "Girls" its first presentation in this city.

The Henrietta Crossman company, which is a new corporation which will exploit Miss Crossman's present vehicle "The Real Thing," Arthur Ruhl of Collier's Weekly doesn't see much in the play to exploit though he is inclined to be pleased with Miss Crossman's acting.

Paul Dickley, seen here with Edgar Selwyn in "Strongheart" and with Henrietta Crossman in "Sham," is to appear again this season in a vaudeville sketch, "The Come-Back." The sketch is from Mr. Dickey's own pen and is based on an incident in his own college days at the University of Michigan.

BUSINESS MEN'S SUPPER AT Y. M. C. A.

The first of a series of business men's suppers and socials at the Y. M. C. A. was held on Thursday evening, and it was a great success, and a most enthusiastic opening for the series.

The plan is to have these suppers at the Association hall every Thursday evening supper to be served at 6.15 followed by speaking and a social hour. It is proposed to have speakers of reputation at each meeting to talk on subjects that will be of interest to the business men. Already 80 have guaranteed to be present, and out of that number 66 were present last evening. It was a representative gathering of men headed by Mayor Badger.

The supper which is served by the Association, last evening consisted of Hamburg steak, tomato sauce, sliced tomatoes, mashed potatoes, rolls, pie, cheese and coffee.

The principal speaker was Mr. Fred L. Willis, General Secretary of the Worcester Y. M. C. A., an able talker who had for his subject, "The Value of Sight," and he handled it in fine shape, keeping his audience interested at all times.

State Superintendent G. H. Watson of Concord, was also present and gave a brief talk.

The meetings will be under the direction of the Social and Membership Committee of the Association.

PERRY NOT DEAD

Arthur Perry, like the lamented Mark Twain, returns to this city with the announcement that the reports of his death have been greatly exaggerated. To manifest that he is very much alive the young man has obtained employment and will permanently locate himself in this city.

The report of young Perry's death was received by his mother in this city about four months ago. A young man intimately acquainted with young Perry said he was definitely assured that Perry dropped dead on a street in Baltimore. As the young man was supposed to have left this city on a barge of the Consolidation Coal company bound for Baltimore, the story was accepted to be true. Heart disease was ascribed as the cause of death. Cursory investigation is said to have verified the report.

When the young man walked into the family home on Hancock street this week he created the most important event of a generation in the Perry family. The boy is said not to have seen the newspaper reports of his death. He read his own obituary yesterday.

Mrs. L. J. Laporte requests the ladies to attend her millinery opening Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Oct. 6, 6, and 7, Main St., Newmarket.

King Victor Depends Upon His Superior Navy For Victory In the War With the Turkish Sultan.

ITALIAN BATTLESHIP BRIN

In the war with Turkey, Italy puts her faith in her naval fighting forces. Her navy ranks fifth in the maritime nations and possesses some Dreadnought battleships, besides up to date cruisers and other craft. The Ottoman navy is almost negligible, but the Turkish army outnumbers that of Italy by many thousands. The Duke of Genoa is in command of the Italian navy.

GROWTH OF EVIL.
Another present day misconception about sin is that by time and growth men will throw off evil habits and passions. Time is a magician, and growth works miracles, but only upon the good. The evil and the bad that begin right. Given a healthy child that is little, growth will make it large and strong, as sage or hero. Given a young, healthy, growth will sow the seeds with rule. Given a young, healthy, growth will multiply the bitter though a thousand times. Given one germ of the plague, growth and time will produce a million deadly germs and a corpse. If the cancer spot is there, make no appeal to time and growth unless you cover death.—Rev. Newell Dwight Hillis.

THE CALL TO ARMS
It has been suggested from various sections of the state that it is time for the republicans of New Hampshire to start the ball rolling—this in response to the reference made made by the Herald that the republicans should get together. A meeting should be called by the republicans with an idea of pulling the party together for a united contest. The movement in Massachusetts is the right sort and it would appear that a rousing meeting with the "fakirs" in the background would be the right spirit.

BIRD'S EYE VIEWS
Japan is getting in shape to strike some one, is the story that every tourist brings back to this country. Wonder who it can be?
The Portsmouth Navy Yard would like to compete with New York in building a battleship.
Yes, Mr. George Edmund Poos is going to get his. The public may be fooled part of the time, but—

Are you going to be a pusher in the step forward movement in New Hampshire or are you to continue as a croaker? is a question that should be put up to some of the don't care citizens.

AMONG OUR EXCHANGES
Can New Hampshire Beat This?
Maine boasts one apple grower who with his six thousand trees last year received six per cent on fifty thousand dollars and this year will realize the same per cent on one hundred and fifty thousand dollars. This is an orchard cared for by a man who is all the time seeking for more light into the dark orchard methods who does early. The usual Wednesday and Saturday matinee will be played in the rut of habit to require during this engagement. There will be a lantern and his way. Here is a holiday matinee on Thursday one of the best object lessons possible—October 12.

ble of what Maine can do for him who seeks partnership in the fruit industry. What is true in Eastern Maine might be duplicated anywhere in the fruit section, but only to him who appreciates and conforms to the conditions. It's the man after all that settles these problems.—Portland Evening Express.

Baron Rosen and the Reporters
Baron Rosen the retiring Russian ambassador, was asked yesterday for some utterance upon the war for Tripoli. He replied:
"I have spent thirty-five years in this country and in all that time I have never been misquoted by a newspaper man. I am therefore certain that none of you will quote me incorrectly now when I say that I cannot speak on any public subject, for I am still true to my training as a diplomat."

Baron Rosen's experience is that of most public men. No one ever talked to reporters with more start freedom than Mr. Roosevelt when president. His confidence was once misused by a French writer who did not understand the unwritten law of reticence, but never by an American. Our able secretaries of State, Knox and Root and Hay, have spoken frankly to Washington correspondents of the close secrets, indicating what could be printed and what could not, without betrayal.

Newspapers commit errors enough of haste, of overzeal, of ignorance, or misjudgment; and reporters naturally share these qualities. But we know of no other class of men whose word is more habitually reliable than that of reporters.—The World.

Get Together
Is it not just possible that a continuance of warfare between so called Progressive republicans on the one hand, and so called Regular Republicans on the other, may lead to a complete overthrow of the Republican party in New Hampshire at the election in 1912? Is it not only a little more than just possible, but it is highly probable? We are of those who believe the Republican party in New Hampshire, as in the nation, stands for more than the victory of one faction over another. Its ascendancy in the affairs of the state we believe is for the best interests of the state as a whole.

We believe it to be the duty of the Republicans of the state to bury the hammer, sheathe the knife and get together. The terms progressives and regulars, should give place to single designation Republican, and harmony should be secured by some other means than by vilification on the one hand, ostracism on the other, or a club in both hands.
By all means let there be a cessation of knocking for knocking's sake, and a getting together for state and national victory next year.

THE MUSICAL REVUE
Quite the sensation of many seasons is the Original Winter Garden Company which is now appearing at the Shubert Theatre, Boston, presenting "The Musical Revue of 1911." This entertainment is a colossal combination of circus spectacle, musical comedy, ballet extravaganza, pageantry, burlesque, variety fun and beauty. It is undoubtedly the biggest amusement combination that has ever come into Boston, and next to the New York Hippodrome is the mightiest aggregation of players appearing on the stage today.

There is a galaxy of stars heading the army of entertainer. Among these are such well known performers as Harry Fisher, Stella Mayhew, Al Jolson, Mlle. Dazie Barney Bernard, Tempest and Sunshine, Billie Taylor, Hess Sisters, Mildred Elaine Yvette, Arthur Cunningham, Sig. Bonfio, Lew Quinn, Agnes Richter, James Grant, Millery Ryder and Harold Robe. Then in addition there is a bunch of red American beauties said to be the pick and choice of this season's crop of Broadway beauties.

"The Musical Revue of 1911" is now already in its second week at the Shubert and the indications are that it will break all records for attendance at this theatre. The press and public have united in declaring that it is the most brilliant and the most lavishly costumed and most splendidly equipped production that has ever been seen here. On the production alone was spent a small fortune. Coming direct and in fact as it is from The Winter Garden, New York it bears the imprimatur of that famous amusement place on Broadway. As the engagement is only for a limited period, it behooves those who wish to see this marvelous entertainment, to secure their reservations immediately. The usual Wednesday and Saturday matinee will be played in the rut of habit to require during this engagement. There will be a lantern and his way. Here is a holiday matinee on Thursday one of the best object lessons possible—October 12.

Cleanings From Files of Portsmouth Chronicle

Perhaps it is of no use to advertise, but on Monday morning we announced that we were desirous of obtaining copies of our daily issue for Feb. 10 and Sept. 11, 1860 and at half-past eight that morning, the papers were upon our desk. On Saturday we advertised a dwelling house to let, for Mr. Harvey, and at noon the bargain had been struck.

The Maine Tenth Regiment passed through this city about 1 o'clock Sunday noon on their way to Hampstead, L. I., there having been a delay of one day in Portland. A few of the men were left behind, having received a furlough until Monday morning, a general impression prevailing that the regiment would not leave until Monday or Tuesday. A fine band of performers under the leadership of Chandler, formerly of the Portland Band, accompanied them.

A REMARKABLE STORY
There is an unpretentious home in Auburn, N. Y., established by a colored woman and bearing her name—the Harriet Tubman Home for Colored Women—and her dramatic story is worth listening to.

She is now nearly a centenarian but her story goes back to the days when she was a slave and as one looks at her pictured features and remembers her restricted opportunities—her parents were slaves and she was ignorant with the rest—wonderment grows concerning the spirit that rose supreme and developed until she became a woman to reckon with.

While still a child the hardships of slavery were deeply impressed upon her, and she grew to womanhood, saw families separated and sold to new masters, she determined to be free herself and to rescue from bondage as many of her people as she could.

While patiently hiding her time her flight was precipitated by the rumor that she and her brother were to be sold and taken further south. Without any chance for preparation other than brief talk and an agreement that instead of going to a new master they would seek freedom in the North they hurried away that night, with the northern star their only guide.

But Harriet was made of stouter timber than her brother whose fears soon grew stronger than his hopes. In dream of failure and consequent punishment, he turned back to his old cabin home, and the woman went on alone spurred on by a spirit that comes to but few.

She was without money, without friends, without the freedom that would have made it safe to ask for help, so she hid by day, walked by night and foraged for food when and where she could all the while singing a song of freedom that somehow came to her with greater insistence than to most of slaves who learned to accept their fate.

At last after many weary nights she crossed the line, but though she had left the slave territory and was in a land of freedom to her it was a strange land; and back in the cabin home were the only ties she knew—father mother and brother and sisters.

And without a thing upon which to base her hope without a friend to pledge help, the resolution was born then and there that some day the home four would be as free as she and when that time dawned she would have a home waiting for them in the North.

She soon made friends and secured work, and every bit of wages that she could spare went to the rescue fund.

Time passed; at last a message went to the old home and one dark night Harriet stood at the door of the little cabin where a band of fugitives awaited her coming. This time her own brave spirit passed to all, and there was no return though the story brings out all the terrors of the fight. There were babies in the little hand babies dragged with paragon to keep them quiet; and there were faint hearted men and women, who would have faltered if she had been less firm. But she urged and compelled and once more passed out of the slave territory.

After helping them to work she again started on her rescue fund and one after another, she made 19 perilous trips, and brought to the North over 300 slaves, her parents, brother and sisters among the rest.
And all the while there was a reward of $10,000 offered for her capture.

was replaced by the larger, but still unpretentious Harriett Tubman Home for women and children and there she continued her ministrations. But now she is approaching her hundredth birthday and nearing the end of her long useful life.
The thing that strikes one most is that this woman should have so conspicuously risen from bondage, superior to obstacles and beading down all the disadvantages of environment, tradition and birth. It's the wondrous spirit that makes one pause to admire, and to wonder what might have happened if life had heaped its best fruits upon her.

MADE OFFER FOR CHURCH PROPERTY

That the Hebrews of the city are serious in their effort to obtain a site for a new synagogue became apparent at the adjourned quarterly conference Wednesday night of the First Methodist church, where it was announced that the Hebrews have made overtures for the purchase of the Methodist church building. J. Howard Grover, Jean True Davis, James Schurman, Harry H. Hilton and Dan E. McIntire were constituted a committee to ascertain the maximum amount the Hebrews will offer. Members of the congregation say there is little likelihood that the building will be sold, as church boards have talked the advisability of disposing of it at least fifty years without coming to a decision.

In view of the expecter conference with the Hebrews the conference was adjourned without discussion of the repairs necessary to the church. Dinner and supper was served in the church by the women of the Ladies Aid Society Mrs. J. Howard Grover, Mrs. Daniel McIntire, Mrs. Y. V. Vernon, Mrs. Richard Bridle, Mrs. C. E. Twombly and Mrs. A. M. Lang were in charge of the serving. The Rev. Raymond H. Huse of Dover, district superintendent presided over the conference. It was announced that the Sunday school will reopen Sunday with rally day exercises.

ROOF OF FREIGHT CAR WRECKS TELEPHONE AND TELEGRAPH WIRES

During the strong wind which prevailed on Thursday the platform on the roof of a freight car on the Sanbornville and Boston freight was lifted by the breeze while crossing the Portsmouth and Kittery bridge and with force landed against the telegraph and telephone wires.
Several of the lines were broken and crossed which interrupted the service until men could get over on the span to clear the trouble. Some of the lumber was found hanging to the lines which made the work of straining out this mess no easy job.

Only the immediate family were present. Paymaster E. H. Goodhue, U. S. N., was best man, and Mrs. Margaret Merriam, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid. Lieutenant Merriam was bridesmaid.

The exercises opened at 10 o'clock with a selection by a band, followed by prayer by Rev. Charles W. Wallace of this town. After a response by the band, Mrs. Annie M. Matthews, the first president of Logan Relief Corps unveiled the monument. "To Thee, O Country," was then sung by 300 school children led by Miss Eaton and Victor Nodan, cornet soloist. "SOCIAL CODE" NOW AT NAVAL ACADEMY

Fourth Classmen Kept Out of Annapolis to Wear Them from "Undesirable Friends"

Annapolis, Oct. 5.—The "social code," fostered for years by many officers of the navy and their families, has been instituted among the midshipmen. Hereafter midshipmen of the lowest, or fourth class, will not be allowed in the city of Annapolis more than eight times a year. Even then they will have to furnish proofs to the Academy officials that they will spend their time with their relatives.

The idea is to break up any bourgeois acquaintance the midshipmen may have in civil life, and, as one of the officers high in authority stated tonight "to make gentlemen" of the future officers. In the future the highest classes of midshipmen who have been "made gentlemen" will know who the women are that their mates escort to the social functions at the Academy.

The recent Beers case and several recent army scandals in cities where there are navy yards have been among the causes of the establishment of the "social code."

It was asked at the office of the superintendent this evening whether it was so that he intended establishing a strict social code. Information was gathered that it was not to be called by that specific name. It was said that the purpose of the new order affecting midshipmen of the lowest class was to "keep them out of trouble, to make them forget undesirable friends and to thereby raise the social of the navy."

Heretofore the midshipmen have been allowed to visit Annapolis twice a week.

His Oversight. "He asked her when he proposed if she knew how to keep house."

"That was a happy thought."

"Yes, and still be overlooked a bet."

"How was that?"

A high naval officer said tonight: "The time has come when the United States must, if it is to keep its military and naval secrets from foreign powers, remove the opportunities for leakage. In the old days of sailing we had somewhat to rely on aliens for our sailors, but now there is not the least need. In future the records of all aliens will be gone over carefully before the men are allowed to enlist."

AMERICANS ONLY FOR UNITED STATES NAVY

Aliens to Be Weeded Out Gradually and the Secrets of the Service to Be Preserved

Washington, Oct. 5.—It was learned today that general orders have been issued which means that the United States army and navy are gradually to be entirely Americanized. All aliens, not naturalized, are to be replaced in the service by citizens.

The issue of these orders was discovered as a result of the recent disappearance of Japanese butlers cooks valets and messroom orderlies, which has been notified at some of the naval ports, particularly Newport, Norfolk San Francisco and Manila.

GREAT COUNCIL OF RED MEN

Held in Manchester With Big Attendance--Officers Elected--Councils Favor Preservation of Indian Relics.

The 31st great sun council of the was followed by the report of Great Red Men in New Hampshire was held on Thursday in Manchester with all of the tribes of the state represented. and all of the grand council officers present.

The council fire was kindled in Odd Fellows' hall at 10.30 a. m., and Great Sachem William T. Wallace of Milton presided.

In addition to the state officers there were present the Great Junior Sagamore Frederick O. Downes of the Great Council of the United States and Past Great Sachem Augustus P. Carls of Boston.

The committee on credentials reported, showing that there were present fifty-five past sachems from the tribes, and they were escorted to the council, and given the past sachem's degree by Great Junior Sagamore Downes, assisted by Great Prophet John P. Young.

The committee also reported that they had examined the credentials of 73 representatives from the various tribes on the reservation, and found them entitled to a seat and vote in the great council.

Following the report of the committee on credentials Great Sachem Wallace read his long election of the great chiefs for the talk, which showed that while the trail had not always been an easy one to travel, in the main the condition of the order throughout the reservation was in a most satisfactory condition: both financially and numerically, and there were encouraging prospects for the institution of at least four new tribes in different hunting grounds in the reservation and that the beginning already made gives promise of a substantial increase in the course of the coming great sun.

The long talk of the great sachem was followed by the report of Great Chief of Records Harrie M. Young, which was as follows:

Number of tribes at last report	45
Number of tribes at present	45
Number of members at last report	4143
Members adopted since last report	269
Reinstated	23
Admitted by card	11
Error in tribal report	1
Total	4447
Loss by death and other causes	364
Total membership at present	4083

The report shows the number of past great sachems to be 20, and of past samhems $18.

Election of Chiefs.

The remainder of the morning session until 12.30 o'clock, when adjournment was taken for dinner, was consumed in the reading of the reports of the various committees and in the reading of the report of the representative to the great council of the United States, which was a very interesting document.

The council fire was rekindled for the afternoon session at 2 o'clock and was immediately followed by the election of the great chiefs for the talk, which showed that while the trail had not always been an easy one to travel, in the main the condition of the order throughout the reservation was in a most satisfactory condition: both financially and numerically, and there were encouraging prospects for the institution of at least four new tribes in different hunting grounds in the reservation and that the beginning already made gives promise of a substantial increase in the course of the coming great sun.

mouth; great grand of wigwag, Alfred H. Walker, Concord; great grand of forest, C. A. Perkins, Oshpee.

Immediately after the election the great chiefs were raised to their stumps by Great Junior Sagamore Downes, assisted by Past Great Sachem Calder as great mishpewa.

Long Talk.

At the close of the routine of business an interesting long talk was given by Great Junior Sagamore Downes, who gave an address on the historical department of the order and of the work under way towards establishing a memorial building in Washington D. C., for the perpetuation and preservation of the relics and traditions of the fast vanishing tribes of the North American Indian, and which congress has been asked to make an appropriation for.

A BOSTON GIRL'S BUDGET

Lead Soldiers Assail Hub—They Came in German Toy Ship—Drug Sensitive Hold Jolly Convention—A Sensible Suburb Orders Quietus on Roosters' Matutinal Crowing and Dogs' Midnight Baying—New England's Art and Music Centre Continues to be Thronged—Interpretation of Common Law Prevents Woman from Becoming Public Officer.

Boston, October 6.—Christmas is coming! Early to announce the comedy, but here at Boston's front door a big steamer from Hamburg laden with toys for Christmas trade. About 900 cases were consigned to the local Santa Claus, the boxes containing every variety of doll and toy. The dolls slept and talked and sang on the way across the big pond, aeroplanes flew about the ship and all kinds of mechanical toys performed their stunts. Now they are in their best behavior waiting to catch the eye of the early shopper who has his or her Christmas list all made out and the wherewithal in pocket.

The Hub glowed with pennants, umbrellas and badges during the convention of the stockholders of the United Drug Company at the ninth annual gathering. These purveyors of things to cure humanity's when were almost as gay as the advertising men of the summer convention. Several hotels flung forth the English flag in honor of the Canadian delegates who were many in number. Scottish pipers signalled the appearance of members from Scotland, and Ireland, Bermuda, the Hawaiian Islands Dawson and many other places were well represented. Combined with the festivities attendant upon the opening of the Chamber of Commerce's big Industrial Exhibition at Mechanics Hall the convention of drug stockholders filled the streets and hotels, to such an extent that some unprepared traveling men found it necessary to make several attempts before locating a lodging place among the busy hotels.

Boston's Latin quarter has resumed its wonted aspect now that the schools and colleges are all open, and the throngs of students in and around Huntington Avenue and the Fenway tend vivaciously to the old town. One wonders where they all come from—if, indeed, a sharp ear does not quickly discover the delicious drawl and slur of the southerner and the breezy spontaneity of the west as contrasted with the Yankee twang of most of our nearer neighbors.

Hit the lady again; that's the common law's perpetual counsel. She's only in the class of idiots and criminals, anyway. Under the assumption at common law that a woman cannot perform the duties of a public officer, Attorney General James M. Swift has decided that women may not serve as transient officers in this state. He also decides that no woman may be appointed to any public office without special statutory authority. This interpretation, if taken seriously, may have a far reaching effect. At any rate, Mrs. Mary Kenney O'Sullivan, well known as a social settlement worker and women's trade union leader, has been defeated in her effort for appointment as a Malden trustee officer. The Malden officials were so anxious to have Mrs. O'Sullivan's services that they attempted to get aside all objections as to her being a non-resident and to permit her to take the examinations in defiance of the Civil Service Commission, but the question had to be finally submitted to Attorney General Swift, whose decision has aroused considerable interest outside of Massachusetts.

What it must be to live in Quincy! The city fathers of that worthy suburban city among the granite hills show a spirit of tenderness toward the sensibilities of their constituents. Only recently a raucous voiced rooster, accustomed to crow in the middle of the night to the disturbance of slumber loving citizens, was doomed by the authorities to a summary execution. Now an ordinance has gone into effect suppressing the noisy canine, and for every disturbance made by the barking dog its owner will have to produce ten hard earned dollars. Neither shall the dog bite, says the ordinance under the same penalty. There are many other suburban towns where similar action would contribute much toward the health and good disposition of the populace. Boston's bed-rooms, without public regulation, tend to grow noisier every year.

The chance to study with Ramon Blanchart, versatile baritone of the Boston Opera Company and with Arnaldo Conti, its eminent conductor, is one of those awaiting a few at least of the thousands of music students from every part of the globe who are foregathering at the Hub this autumn. Of all the announcements for the musical season of 1911-12 none sounds more alluring to the average young American than this, that at the New England Conservatory of Music there will henceforth be conducted a "school of grand opera" with the two eminent gentlemen just named as instructors and with a curriculum hearing directly on the professional singer's métier. This is the newly organized operatic enterprise. Mr. Conti, besides being a tower of strength at the operatic performances has already had experience with American students. During the first years of his conductorship he coached a number of young artists, nearly twenty of whom subsequently appeared in performances of the Company. He is a native of northern Italy who became conductor of the Symphony concerts at Padua at the early age of 16 and who has since then conducted in Rome, Paris, Buenos Ayres and London. Such long experience in presenting opera has given Mr. Conti a position of unusual authority as an interpreter of all the leading national operatic schools ancient and modern. Mr. Blanchart is a Spaniard who since his debut at Barcelona a few years ago has become one of the world's leading baritones. He has sung at practically all the opera houses of civilization and is said to have one of the most extensive repertoire of any living baritone. With such a teaching force backed by the progressive and successful management of the Conservatory the school of grand opera is likely to be a very important addition to the educational facilities of this great school city that is up-building along Huntington Avenue and the Fenway.

THINK IT OVER.

We take altogether too much for granted, and some of the things we have calmly accepted for many years seem open to question.

Is it a fact that the man dressmaker, the man-milliner, are more artists and creative than the woman dressmaker, the woman-milliner? And is it true that the chef, in all his dignity and high-priced mantle, is really superior to the woman cook? In point of remuneration the chef ascends, and the cook drops below, but in fact?

The masculine manipulator of French modes sends us the most extreme, eccentric styles. Generally we only view the unbecoming creations encased in glass, but the figures are well enough adopted to bring out the conspicuous ugliness of costumes bearing well-known names, gowns variously pronounced impossible, absurd and freakish not all, but enough that our allegiance is not pledged to the men who contrive them. Pocketbooks could not keep pace with the prices if sense of fitness endorsed the beauty.

Business and sentiment are not allied very closely but one would think the art of the creators would rebel in the ugliness of some of the ## Feet Tired—So Tired?

TIZ Makes Sick Feet Well No Matter What Ails Them

TIZ acts at once and makes tired, aching, swollen feet remarkably fresh and sore proof.

It's the sure remedy, you know, for everything that gets the matter with your feet. It's for sore feet and for sweetly bad smelling feet, and for corns, callouses and bunions, too.

"For years I have been troubled with sore and tender feet; suffered intense pains. Have had the assistance of physicians without relief. I bought a box of TIZ, which worked a perfect cure, as it has with a great many of my friends. I would not be without it. All it requires is to be known to be universally used."—A. F. Dreyer, Chicago.

TIZ is not a powder. Powders and other foot remedies clog up the pores. TIZ draws out all poisonous, exuding matter which bring on soreness of the feet and is the only remedy that does. TIZ cleans out every pore and glorifies the feet—your feet.

You'll never limp again or draw up your face in pain, and you'll forget about your corns, bunions and callouses; You'll feel like a new person.

TIZ is for sale at all druggists, 25 cents per box, or it will be sent you direct, if you wish, from Walter L. Dodge & Co., Chicago, Ill.

NEW ENGLAND INDUSTRIAL EXPOSITION.

fantastic fashions designed for American women by masculine costumers.

Some of our dressmakers, women with creative genius and artistic ideas, design and execute gowns that are exquisite tributes to their art. Costumes that call to mind a beautiful woman, by reason of their grace and fitness. And when we compare them with some of the funny creations that come from across the sea, man-made, we hope it is true that the long and undisputed reign of the man-dressmaker is beginning to receive some violent and significant shocks.

We speak unauthoritatively, because some of us have never been near a Parisian millinery shop where a man sets in motion the styles that are to be sent out for his American following, but as we look at the "exclusive models" that come to us with the word that they are man-designed, "exact copies," etc.—well, we do not blame the designers but wonder at the acceptance.

There is no objection whatever to the man-milliner or dressmaker. He has a perfectly clear right to invade any field he likes, but why should he be permitted any longer to head the list in point of prices and adulation if there are, as we think shops galore, owned managed and worked by women, whose hats bear names of less renown but marks of equal skill and beauty? We have no desire to see old monarchs totter on their thrones, and yet in the interest of fair play, with the hat designed and made by a woman in one hand, that by a man in the other—why not give the palm and the excess of profit to the pretties, the more adaptable, regardless of the prestige of a name?

Let him win if he can, but not just because someone or lot of someone long ago dubbed him "Milliner to the Queen," or otherwise brought him into prominence. There are hosts of artistic creative women milliners in the world the output of whose shops can hold their own anywhere.

And what about the chef? He gets the salary and he concocts some mighty choice delicacies, which he knows how to garnish and serve to a nicety. There is no desire to take a single laurel from his great, big rich collection. He is an important feature of civilization and a right pleasant one—but there is the woman cook.

I wonder if there ever was an official woman "cook to a king"? You see, prestige goes a long way, and not much issues from the family kitchen, but don't you think the woman cooks just as well as the chef? Recalling some of the delicious morsels of her making imagination or such realities as have come our way, fail to encompass the possibility of improvement. There is an aroma, far above and away outside of the about the very words "French chef" that puts the plan "cook" far in the shade, but side by side, day in and day out, is there any great difference when the best French chef is compared with the best woman cook? If he wins the prize, let him have it, nice French title, big corps or helpers and all, but if the dinner planned and prepared by the woman is just as tasty let her share the honor.

We do not in the least object to the man-milliner, the man-dressmaker or the chef. Indeed, we accept them pleasantly and patronizingly on the basis of "as good as" but not "the best ever."

Aluminum ware at low prices. W. E. Paul's 57 Market St.

What is unquestionably the greatest exposition of New England made products ever shown, was opened in Mechanics Building, Boston, Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock where it will remain until Oct. 28.

In the presence of several hundred guests the formal opening was conducted soon after the doors were opened to the public. Congratulatory addresses were made by invited men, and the committee who have worked to bring about this successful movement for publicity for New England were loud in their praise of the commercial organizations throughout New England and the hearty interest they have given to the work.

Thousand of persons thronged the spacious building to take advantage of this rare opportunity of seeing just what New England stands for in the present scheme of modern industry. This Exposition is astonishing in its revelation of New England resources, and most in tremendous benefit to New England industries of every nature, in each of the six states represented.

Every conceivable article which to do with the physical well being of an individual end is on exhibition here. There are exhibits of every important article which comes from the mills and factories, the shoe, wool, cotton, and other manufacturers. Methods of farming and the handling of dairy products are given special attention, and, incidentally, there is model farm, with horses, cows and pigs, showing the sanitary conditions which are being inaugurated on New England farms.

The declared purposes of this Exposition are:

First, to show what New England is, and to give to New Englanders a general idea of the basis of our prosperity and strength.

Second, to show each of us what our neighbors are doing, and how we can improve and develop the work in which we are engaged.

Third, to encourage new endeavors and enterprises, suggest new opportunities, and show what has been done to provide facilities for industrial education and continuous improvement in methods, which must be the basis for the maintenance of our business standing and position, individually and collectively.

No one can go through this exposition without increasing his appreciation of, and pride in, the fact that it means something to be a New Englander. It is the greatest events ever held in any one locality of the country, and will be in reality as far reaching and interesting as any of the international expositions. Far above and away outside of the educational features, the show is of great interest and should attract the general public as there is so much of general interest that it appeals to all as the greatest Exposition ever held in Mechanics Building. Food products as well as manufacturing, ladies' apparel and house furnishings, good music and art, all entertained in one great Exhibit of practically every thing pertaining to our every day life.

FIRST GAME IN NEW YORK

New York, Oct. 5.—The National Commission today decided to play the first of the world's baseball championship games at the Polo Grounds here on Saturday, Oct. 14. The choice was determined by the loss of a quarter of a dollar. Ben Shibe, president of the Athletics, called heads and the coin settled with tails up.

The commission met in the room of John T. Brush, the Giants' president, who is ill and unable to leave his quarters. The following schedule for the remaining games was adopted: Oct. 16, 18 and 20, at Philadelphia, Oct. 17 and 19 at New York.

Should any of the games be postponed on account of rain or from any other cause, the commission decided that the visiting nine shall remain in the city where the game was scheduled until it can be played. A postponement of any game would therefore necessitate a change in the remainder of the schedule.

Umpires Klem and Brennan were detailed by the National League for the contests and Umpires Connolly and Dineen by the American League.

WITH NAVAL HONORS.

Funeral of Rear Admiral Winfield Scott Schley Held in Washington Thursday — Burial in Arlington Cemetery.

Washington, Oct. 5.—Naval honors characterized the funeral today of Rear Admiral Winfield Scott Schley, who died in New York Monday. The body rested in the family home during the morning, preparatory to the private services at 1.30 o'clock. The public services were at St. John's Episcopal Church.

Cadets from the Naval Academy at Annapolis, sailors from the naval stations at Washington and Philadelphia light artillery and army bands from Fort Myer and Washington barracks, and comrades and friends of the dead Admiral composed the procession that escorted the body of Admiral Schley from St. John's Church to its resting place in Arlington National Cemetery.

Imposing floral gifts filled St. John's Church. They included a wreath from the survivors of the Greeley Arctic relief expedition, rescued by Admiral Schley at Cape Sabine in 1884, and wreaths from various soldiers.

Wallace Hackett was in Manchester Thursday attending the meeting of the Concord and Portsmouth R. R. company.

A FINE NIGHTCAP

The Best Thing in the World to go to Bed and Sleep on "My wife and I find that 4 teaspoonfuls of Grape-Nuts and a cup of hot milk, or some cream, with it, makes the finest nightcap in the world," says an Allegheny, Pa., man.

"We go to sleep as soon as we strike the bed, and slumber like babies till rising time in the morning."

"It is about three years now since we began to use Grape-Nuts food, and we always have it for breakfast and before retiring and sometimes for lunch. I was so sick from what the doctors call brain fog before I began to use Grape-Nuts that I could neither eat, sleep nor work with any comfort."

"I was afflicted at the same time with the most intense pains, accompanied by a racking headache, and backache, every time I tried to eat anything. Notwithstanding an unusual pressure from my professional duties, I was compelled for a time to give up my work altogether."

"Then I put myself on a diet of Grape-Nuts and cream alone, with an occasional cup of Postum as a run-up, and sometimes a little dry toast. I assure you that in less than a week I felt like a new man; I had gained six pounds in weight, could sleep well and think well."

"The good work went on and I was soon ready to return to business, and have been hard at it, and enjoying ever since."

"Command me at any time any one enquires as to the merits of Grape-Nuts. You will find me ready always to testify." Name given by Tostum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

I WONDER

Why the committee meeting in ward one was sprung so early?
If the local authorities are not glad that the rogues are off their hands?

If the navy yard ever before showed the need of more room for docking than it does at present?

If the contractors on the quay wall work there should not be advised to hurry it as fast as possible?

If there is not some class to the landscape artists who have been touching up city hall lawns?

If camp Mistletoe will put in steam heat for the winter?

If the location at the corner of Brewster and Istington streets has not improved some of late?

Why councilman Littlefield does not care to run in ward one again?

If his friends cannot get Billy to think it over and try his luck again?

Who did all that crying and screaming on Rogers street on Thursday night?

If that is not a queer location for a man to pull a woman's hair under the windows of the neighbors?

Why that man who claims he was elected a member of the Sagamore engine company has not got his certificate yet?

How George is getting along with those home made golf sticks?

If Jack will ever do another freeze act waiting on the corner for a girl that never came?

If the Vaughan street Fishing club has hauled up its fleet in cold storage for the season?

If the Apple man has anything on Dennis McGrath on the product of his garden on Bow street.

If the fruit which is on exhibition at Holland's market is not the finest seen in this locality for many years?
